Speed limit reduction is proposed

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

When Wayne County officials last week denied a city council request to reduce the speed limit near Romulus Senior High School, councilmembers decided to take a new approach to their concern.

Earlier this fall, councilmembers asked the county to reduce the speed limit in front of the school at Wayne Road from 45 to 25 mph. The request was denied.

County officials said they only approve reduced speed limits in front of elementary schools.

So Councilman Jimmie Raspberry took the county's advice.

Raspberry proposed asking the county to reduce the speed limit in front of Cory Elementary School. Cory is one mile north of the high school on Wayne Road.

"I'm trying to find out if the county really means what they say," Raspberry said.

The councilman said another rejection will cast doubt on the excuse given for the first denial.

If the speed limit reduction is approved, Raspberry said he believes it will make that section of Wayne safer for Cory and high school students.

On the suggestion of Mayor Beverly McAnally, the request also will address the Romulus School Board.

The request will suggest that the south driveway to the high school be used only for incoming traffic.

The north driveway would allow two-way traffic. That system would reduce traffic confusion, McAnally said.

Councilmember Ellis Pennington, author of the first request, said students often pull out of the high school driveway and cut across the street to McDonald's restaurant. Pennington described the area as high risk for accidents.

City debates cost to save old school

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Most members of city council agree Romulus needs a recreation facility, but they are split on the idea of using the old South Middle School building to meet that need.

The building once was used as the first Romulus high school. It was closed last June shortly after district officials learned the boiler contained asbestos, a suspected cancer-causing agent. After two public meetings, district officials announced plans to demolish the building.

City councilmembers were brought into the picture last month when a group of citizens approached them with a petition to save the old school. They suggested the building be used as a recreation facility and urged council to accept a district offer to sell the building for $1.

Ultimately, council members agreed to stage a joint meeting with school board members to discuss options for the building.

During a regular city council meeting Nov. 14, officials expressed concern over the high costs of saving the building.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said an assessment of the school several years ago indicated a building rehabilitation would cost $2 million. That figure does not include the cost of revamping the building for a specific use or the ongoing cost of maintenance, McAnally said.

"We can't only consider what it costs to rehabilitate it... There's a large ongoing cost should we take the offer for a dollar. I don't think 1 mill or 2 mills are going to do it," she said.

McAnally suggested testing the waters before accepting any financial responsibility for the school. One possibility would be a ballot issue, asking residents whether they would pay the millage hike required to revamp the building.

Speaking in favor of utilizing the school was Councilman Ellis Pennington.

"Somewhere along the line this city is going to have to furnish a recreation center for the youth of this city."

Pennington said the old school is basically sound. Saving it would cost the city less money than constructing a new facility, he said.

"I can think of so many uses—programs that would benefit this city as a whole."

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, however, said the idea of providing recreation is not the question.

Because the school district abandoned the building, Raspberry said he is concerned that it may not be suitable for a recreation center.

"The school district that's getting approximately 60 cents of every (tax) dollar... they made the decision years ago that this school is not fit for school kids," he said.

"You're taking the burden of the school and putting it on our back," he added.

"There's sentimental value to that building, but let's be realistic," said Councilman Noah Bergeron.

Bergeron said the $1 offer indicates school officials see the building as a burden.

Councilmember William Wadsworth pointed out councilmembers indicated they were not interested in the school earlier this year when he attended district hearings on the subject.

Gear accepts new post

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Randolph Gear did not count on becoming mayor pro tem when he decided to seek another term on Romulus City Council.

Now that he is in that role, however, Gear said he is anxious to grow into the leadership position.

In Romulus elections, the city council candidate who receives the highest number of votes becomes mayor pro tem, a "substitute mayor." The position also involves acting as chairperson during council meetings.

Gear placed in the top spot two weeks ago when he received 2,333 votes out of an election day total of 4,292. "It was a big surprise. All I wanted to do was remain on council," he said.

Gear, who was raised in Romulus, decided to pursue city politics two years ago.

"I wanted to act for the every day man on the street."

The political arena was a sharp contrast to Gear's career as an art teacher. He is employed in a Detroit middle school and also works with adults in a Dearborn night school program.

"It (city council) was a completely different world for me," he said.

What did prove useful to Gear were his experiences as a sergeant in the United States

Hayti school is listed for sale

Hayti Elementary School is for sale.

The Romulus Board of Education last week agreed to list the school and adjacent property for $275,000 with Century 21 Chalest.

The building closed five months ago.

Low enrollments and financial difficulties led district officials to close the school despite complaints from teachers and residents. Most of the Hayti students and staff were relocated to Cory and Halecreek schools.

Community members offered an official farewell to Hayti last June, shortly before the building closed. Former students, teachers and administrators exchanged memories and walked through the building for the last time.

The recent decision to sell the building was based on the advice of the district finance committee. Committee members maintain the building is no longer needed by the district and selling Hayti will save money in maintenance and insurance.

Opinions sought on old school building

When concerned residents filled city council chambers last month, they showed city and school officials the fate of the old South Middle School Building is an emotional issue.

Located on Olive Street, the building was built in 1930 and became the first Romulus high school.

A boiler containing potentially dangerous asbestos and other repair problems led district officials to tentatively schedule the building for demolition.

Some residents claim the building is part of city history and must be saved.

Residents offer assistance

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Providing food and companionship in a package deal, clubs and agencies throughout the area are offering free meals for the needy this Thanksgiving holiday.

The Great Faith Temple, 27628 Avondale Road, is hosting a dinner from 1 to 5 p.m., today.

Traditional holiday fare will be served.

"We're basically looking at feeding the elderly, mothers whose ADC (government aid) checks run out at the end of the month, families from crack homes where the mothers and fathers cannot provide a meal," said Pastor Wayne Timothy Jackson.

Previously, the church distributed food baskets during the holiday season, Jackson said. The church staff decided a sitdown dinner would benefit a larger group of people.

Educators discuss teen issues

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The ever-maddening myths about teens, the problems they face and how society can deal with those problems were the focus of a public forum recently in Wayne County.

A group of educators, counselors and social workers met Nov. 9 to discuss how a growing problem facing teens can be solved.

The event, hosted by the Out Wayne County Council on Child Abuse and Neglect, was staged at the Wayne County Intermediate School District office in Wayne.

Teens today are faced with two major problems, according to keynote speaker, Dr. Cornelia Porter of the University of Michigan.

Teens do not know who they are or what they are supposed to do in our society, Porter said. In other words, they lack identity and a role, she said.

"We don't know what to do about adolescents because we don't know what to think about them," she said.

Further, Porter said, myths continue to circulate about the teenage years: "These are the best years of your life. Now is the time to sow your wild oats. Teenagers are getting ready for life."

Adolescence is a stage of life, not a waiting period, Porter said. Teens find themselves in a very frightening, different world than their parents experienced, she said.

"Teens live in a world today we know little about," Porter said.

She suggests parents work to understand their children's world and the reasons behind their problems. If teens do come to the parents asking for advice, they need more than pat answers, Porter said.

Two other speakers discussed existing programs formed to address the problems of teen pregnancy.

Kathy Edgar explained the Teenage Parent Alternative School program offered to Downriver communities.

More than 160 volunteers are contributing to a Thanksgiving dinner planned for noon to 5 p.m. tomorrow at the Sheridan Community Center, 12111 Pardee Road, in Taylor.

Organizing the event for the second year are members of the Huron District Boy Scouts of America.

"It's not just for the needy. We ask senior citizens, families who cannot afford this dinner who would normally have something small," said Graham Brown, dinner chairman.

Brown said he initiated the holiday meal last year after counseling a woman contemplating suicide. The woman was lonely, he said.

Residents of neighboring communities are welcome. For reservations or more information, call 292-3461, 287-2800 or 897-1965.

Soup kitchen volunteers spent most of yesterday preparing for the meal offered by Wayne Metropolitan Community Services.

Dinner will be served from noon to 2 p.m. today at 35408 Beverly Road in Romulus. The menu includes turkey, ham, trimmings and homebaked desserts.

For more information, call 728-7510.

Staged exclusively for senior citizens, members of the Belleville Moose Lodge offered their traditional Thanksgiving meal Nov. 19.

Prior to the meal, Civic Affairs Director Bob Reeds said he expected between 300 and 400 seniors to attend. Meals were to be served at 1 and 3 p.m.

"It's a real big affair for us," Reeds said.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Commission has new member

Noah Bergeron will represent Romulus City Council on the city planning commission.

Jimmie Raspberry proposed Bergeron fill the position Nov. 14 during the regular city council meeting.

For the past six years, Councilmember Ellis Pennington represented council on the commission. A resolution thanking Pennington for his efforts was passed by council.

Chairman pro tem is elected

Romulus City Councilmember Jimmie Raspberry was elected last week to serve as chairman pro tem.

If Chairman Randolph Gear is unable to attend a council meeting, public hearing or study session, Raspberry will serve in his place. Raspberry was elected by the other members of council.

Council addresses high accident area

Members of the Romulus City Council are concerned the area of Wayne Road near Herman and McBride roads poses a high risk for accidents.

Councilmember Noah Bergeron said three or four serious accidents already have occurred in that area, and he is worried there will be more. Bergeron asked Mayor Beverly McAnally to request a traffic survey by the city police department.

The information from the survey could then be passed on to the Wayne County Road Commission.

"Perhaps they can look at that area again and see what can be done," Bergeron said.

Groups stages public meeting

Members of the Romulus Right to Life organization have scheduled a public meeting about the teen health center planned for Romulus Senior High School at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14 at Romulus City Hall.

The meeting will feature a guest speaker. For more information, call 942-9519.

Local arts council thanks supporters

Members of the Romulus Arts Council have expressed gratitude to business people and local residents who helped sponsor a recent art reception.

Fall Into Art was staged Nov. 16 for a group of student artists. The council received more than $1,400 toward the event.

Local sponsors are - Romulus Auto Supply, Romulus Tanning Salon, Romulus Video, Mary Ann Banks, Raymond Rosbury, the law firm of Berry, Hopson, Francis, Mack and Seifman, Rhonda Hennessy-DDS, Attorney Jamil Akhtar, Davis Autobody, Craftsman, Inc., Romulus Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9568, Roger Cadaret, United Brass Manufacturers Inc., Romulus Rotary Club, Attorney Feliz Rogalle, Kerr Manufacturing Co., Lear Siegler, Metro Airport Center and Biclair Electric and Machine Inc.

Nominees still sought

Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce are continuing their search for the 10th Annual Romulus Person of the Year.

Nominees should be people who have made a significant contribution to the community.

The individual will be honored at an awards banquet March 2, 1990 at the Hilton Inn.

Nomination forms can be picked up at the chamber office in the Holiday Inn-Detroit Metro Airport, 31200 Industrial Expressway. For more information, call 326-4290.

Young talent

The Romulus Arts Council set aside a special night last week to recognize the students who contributed to the Art in the Workplace program this year. This marks the third year for the program which places student art work in local business and government offices. During the reception, Fall Into Art, students were addressed by Mayor Beverly McAnally. Participants from last year received their paintings and drawings, professionally framed and matted. Checking out some of the art works for this year was Dawn Howell, 13 (left) with her mother, Bev Warren. Howell is the artist of Triceratops, done in tempera. Residents urged to prepare for winter

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Winter Awareness Week, Nov. 26 through Dec. 2, is a time for education and preparation, said Margaret LeDuc, Romulus Coordinator for Emergency Preparedness.

"It's a time to make yourself aware winter is coming on, to know what to do and to prepare yourself," she said.

Although awareness week is a state event, designated by Gov. James Blanchard, LeDuc is working to spread the word about winter safety on a local level.

Winter hazards include snow and ice on roads, skin overexposed to the cold, overexertion from snow shoveling and isolation in homes, LeDuc said.

She suggested people stock up their cupboards with canned and dried foods, flashlights, candles, battery-operated radios, prescription medicine, extra blankets, heavy clothing, powdered milk and baby food.

"It's just those kind of things you can always use, but in the bad weather you may not want to go out and get them."

People also should prepare for the aftereffects of a bad winter storm, LeDuc said.

"People might now, especially older people, want to line up people to shovel their walks."

LeDuc suggested people ask a neighbor or newspaper carrier for help. After a heavy snowfall, there is a risk of being trapped in the home for seniors or disabled people, she said.

In Romulus, the senior center offers a telephone reassurance service. Volunteers call seniors Monday through Friday to make sure they are fine.

"Now, people might want their elderly moms and dads on the line," LeDuc said.

The senior center also offers food delivery service. For more information about any of the services available to seniors, call 942-6852.

LeDuc also suggested preparing for winter weather by monitoring local AM radio stations. The stations usually supply regular reports about road and weather conditions along with school closings.

Local road reports also may appear on the city cable.

Christmas trees are crafted for charity

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

When Mary Gibas and her four daughters presented their creations at the Festival of Trees fundraiser, they listed two entries, made by two teams.

In reality, the efforts put into this traditional holiday event were shared by all five Romulus women. They designed and donated their trees as a family.

Staged at Cobo Hall, the Festival of Trees raises money for Children's Hospital of Detroit. This year, 100 Christmas trees were presented by people throughout the metropolitan area. The festival also features gingerbread villages, wreaths, entertainment and Santa Claus.

This year marked the third time Gibas participated with daughters Barbara Gibas and Marcia Stewart. Daughters MaryAnn Chinavare and Linda Gibas, entered for the first time. "We thought it was for a good cause, and I have a grandson who they helped at Children's Hospital," Gibas said.

During a preview party Friday evening, festival authorities presented awards for trees which best captured chosen themes. Holiday of Spices, presented by Chinavare, Stewart and Linda Gibas, received a blue ribbon for the best country theme.

The entire family took pride in the honor.

"We were all kind of working together," Gibas said.

The tree features nonedible spicy cookies hung with red ribbons. They were made with art dough mixed with cinnamon and spices, Gibas said.

Additional decorations are styrofoam covered clove balls, clusters of dried apples, miniature baskets of potpourri and baby's breath.

Large cinnamon sticks sit atop the tree with red and green plaid taffeta skirting the bottom. On a table near the base of the tree is a miniature Santa Claus holding dried apples, a basket of cinnamon sticks and a large basket of scented pine cones.

The other family creation, Peachy Christmas, was the effort of Gibas and daughter, Barbara. Once they decided on a theme, planning it was easy, Gibas said.

"It didn't take us very long to plan at all. They (the decorations) just clicked," she said.

Peachy Christmas contains peach-colored organdy butterflies, peach lacy hearts, taffeta balls and flowers, ivy garland and gold beads. The tree is topped with gold paper ribbon and peach flowers, and the bottom is wrapped in a peach taffeta skirt.

"We were real proud of it...it was very pretty," Gibas said.

The Gibas' trees, along with 98 other creations, will be on display at Cobo Hall until Nov. 26.

Army Reserves. In the armed forces, he said he learned about working with other people to reach a goal.

Now, Gear anticipates challenges in his new role.

"One of the big challenges will be to continue to listen and learn from my colleagues," he said.

Gear said he also wants to maintain an open ear to the community.

Romulus, he said, now is experiencing a strong growth, creating a mixed blessing.

"Developers are starting to see we have a lot of land space, and we have an airport sitting in the middle of our city."

While the city has opportunities for industrial and commercial development, Gear said the city needs additional housing opportunities.

Because commercial development automatically attracts potential residents, the city should be ready to accommodate them.

"I would also like residents to see the importance of a recreation center," Gear said. "We have organized programs for our young people, but we don't have anything that centers around young adults and married people."

For the next few years, Gear said he wants to continue learning and improving in his role on council.

"I hope to do the best job I can for the people of the community...to learn as much as I can about the workings of city government."

New solid-waste plan reviewed

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

After several months "on the back burner," the revised update of the proposed five-year Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan is slated for a public hearing early next month.

The plan, which must be approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, two-thirds of the communities involved and the state Department of Natural Resources, could be implemented as early as February of 1990, if no major roadblocks occur.

The Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee, chaired by County Commissioner Milton Mack, will stage a public hearing on the updated plan at 7 p.m. Dec. 5 in the Wayne County Intermediate School District Annex Auditorium, 5454 S. Venoy St., Wayne.

James Murray, Wayne County Department of Public Works director, brought the updated plan to the Nov. 17 meeting of the Conference of Western Wayne.

Murray said the plan calls for a heavy emphasis on recycling, reducing and reusing solid waste. The goal of the plan is that nothing will go to a landfill unless it cannot be recycled, reduced or reused, he said. Although the established goal is to reduce waste by 75 percent, some variations are included in the five options.

Options which are available to communities in the plan are:

- Recycling/composting with the implementation of curbside pickups, with a goal of 40 percent reduction;
- Waste-to-energy incineration, with recycling and composting encouraged;
- Hosting a landfill, which would exempt the community from the 75 percent reduction requirement;
- Utilization of existing landfills and incinerators, and
- Exportation of wastes outside of Wayne County.

The stated objectives of the county plan are to minimize waste generation and to develop reuse, recycling, composting and waste-to-energy facility and to provide landfill capacity to the year 2000. The county objectives also are to work toward the enactment of laws and regulations to support the goals, and to ensure enforcement of all pertinent laws and regulations.

Murray told the Conference of Western Wayne membership that the county is expected to generate 159 million cubic yards of wastes in the next 10 to 11 years. To accommodate the predicted waste generated, two or three more landfills must be sited, in addition to the proposed expansion of the Riverview landfill and the proposed Sauk Trail Landfill in Canton Township.

At present, Murray said, the county will not site any new landfills without agreement from the host community. However, he said, there is only a short "window of time" that communities can negotiate with landfill operators before the solid waste crisis will force sitings.

Murray said, if the county fails to site a landfill to serve the needs of the area, the state Department of Natural Resources will site one. At this time, he continued, the county executive will not forgo his rights and allow the state to site a landfill.

Teens begin food drive

Members of Michigan Elite Teens will be asking residents this season for donations toward their holiday canned food drive.

Michigan Elite Teens is a work/recreation program that allows teens to earn extra money through door-to-door candy sales. Members are also encouraged to participate in community activities.

All food donations will be given to the Gleaners Community Food Bank of Greater Detroit. Gleaners serves more than 155,000 meals per week to the hungry.

Participants in the drive will ask for nonperishable canned and dried food items through Dec. 25.

Tours of Santa's studio are offered

Peeks at Sant Claus' studio, site of the Michigan Thanksgiving Parade, will be offered to the public Nov. 30.

Sponsoring the activity is the Young Women's Association of Western Wayne County.

Visitors will see how the huge parade floats are constructed along with the selection and construction of parade costumes. They will also learn about the 40-year history of the papier-mache character head collection.

The festivities will continue with lunch at Dakota Inn Rathskeller.

Participants will leave the YWCA building in Inkster at 9:45 a.m. and return by 3 p.m. The activity costs $24.50 for adults and $23.50 for students and senior citizens.

Reservations with payment are required by Nov. 27. For more information, call 561-4110.

Scholarship is offered

Applications are being accepted for the annual Plymouth/AAA Michigan Trouble Shooting Contest, enabling high school senior automotive students statewide to compete for more than $750,000 in scholarships.

During the competition, students will take a written examination to determine who will participate next spring in the state hands-on contest. Winners of that event then qualify for national finals in Washington, D.C.

No entry fee is required.

Application forms have been mailed to instructors with automotive technology programs. Forms can be obtained by writing to AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Department, 1 Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, Michigan, 48126.

Romulus high school presents 'Dracula'

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Count Dracula roamed through the halls of Romulus Senior High School for the final time Saturday evening, wrapping up the first student production of the year.

Most of the Dracula cast members said they were having fun with their parts, instilling moments of humor into a traditionally dark, frightening drama.

"I think it's the best play we've ever done," said Jacquelyn Shay, referring to the efforts of the school drama department. Shay portrayed a maid in the play, one that becomes hypnotized by Dracula's powers.

In the starring role was Shawn Frazier. The part was a contrast to those he has played in the past, he said.

"It's my first villain."

Preparing for the role was not difficult, Frazier said.

"Once my hair's done I think I'm into character."

Frazier said his Dracula does experience violent moments—in one scene he murders his assistant, Renfield—but he has a certain charm.

"He's more of a romantic."

Brian Mills, who portrayed madman Renfield, said he felt comfortable with his role.

"I start out crazy and get worse," he said.

The fact that Renfield enjoys eating bugs did make the part somewhat challenging, but Mills said he has taken it in stride. He explained matter-of-factly, "I can do cockroach."

Undergoing changes as the play progresses is Lucy, who was portrayed by Kristen Baker. Lucy is the target of Dracula's affections - so to speak.

"My character changes from sweet and innocent to steamy and vicious," Baker said. "I get a real hot love scene."

Returning to the high school after graduation, Bill McEwen took the role of Dr. Seward. Ultimately, his character is one of three men who track Dracula and destroy him. Although he has acting experience in outside productions, McEwen said Dracula has become one of his favorites.

"This is the best cast I've worked with in my entire life," he said.

Also pursuing Dracula is Harker, played by Robert Snell. Harker is Lucy's fiance.

"He watches her flirt around with Dracula," he said.

Dracula's greatest enemy in this production is Dr. Van Helsing played Eugene Haney.

"Van Helsing is not really a hero. He's the type of character who uses his brains more than his brawn...it's wits against wits."

Completing the cast was Richard Snell, Renfield's psychiatric attendant.

"I drag him (Renfield) around the stage," Snell said of his character's role.

The students said they are proud of their efforts and pointed out one of their performances broke an audience record for the school—124 people.

Based on a novel by Bram Stoker, the student production did not completely stick to the original version.

Business invests in education

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Frank Lopez of Aztec Manufacturing Co. has decided to make an investment in Romulus, instead of Wall Street.

Lopez is one of several business leaders participating in a new program at Romulus Junior High School, aimed at helping students with difficulties.

The program, Positive Recognition, is designed to help students believe in themselves by helping them become better students.

A Partnership for Education project, the program teams school staff members with several local businesses.

"My motive is that I have a business here, and I draw from the community," Lopez said of his reasons for becoming involved.

Lopez said he has noticed that some people applying for jobs have poor reading and writing skills. As an employer, Lopez said he has a vested interest in the quality of students in the area.

Program coordinators hope they can help Lopez and others find the quality workers they need.

Coordinators will target students experiencing difficulty with grades, behavior or both. These students are classified as high-risk - those most likely to drop out of school when they reach the age of 16.

"We needed something in place for students who are not having success," said Linda Bradfield, a counselor active in organizing the program. The need for a program is evident. Bradfield estimated that approximately one-third of the school population can be considered high risk.

Goals are to reduce absenteeism and referrals for poor behavior and to improve academic performances, she said.

Coordinators hope to help students achieve these goals in a number of ways, Bradfield said.

Student will be grouped and those showing the most improvement will receive incentive prizes, she said.

Also, assemblies will be staged at the end of each marking period to honor students who improved their grade point average, Bradfield said.

Students also will be honored on an individual basis.

Another component of the program will bring counselors and the students together in special sessions to help those students build their self-images.

As for the people like Lopez, they will talk to students about life in the working world, encouraging the students to do better in school.

Wayne County budget battle continues to stew

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

The chairman of the Wayne County board of commissioners struck back last week at County Executive Edward McNamara and his recent veto of the proposed 1989-90 county budget.

Chairman Arthur Blackwell (D-Highland Park) accused McNamara of refusing to work with the commission to reach a budget agreement.

"After thorough review of Mr. McNamara's Nov. 9 veto

It appears the Wayne County executive perceives the issue to be a question of the roles to be played by the executive and legislative branches of county government.

— Arthur Blackwell
Chairman

message, we can only conclude that his veto of the entire budget was a gross overreaction," Blackwell said.

The commission members have approved a new budget, which Blackwell said is completely different and based on further review and analysis by commissioners. The new budget is awaiting McNamara's approval.

The original budget totalled $1.3 billion, including general fund expenditures of $274 million.

McNamara said Nov. 9 that he was vetoing the entire budget because commissioners made inaccurate revenue projections, mostly expected to come from drug forfeiture and interest from savings accounts.

He called the budget "irresponsible" and "illegal" and charged that it invited an increase in the county debt. Blackwell disagreed, saying the veto shows a conflict between the executive and legislative branches of county government.

"It appears that the Wayne County executive perceives the issue to be a question of the roles to be played by the executive and legislative branches of county government," Blackwell said. "It appears, through his veto of the entire Nov. 2 budget, that the executive questions the ability of the commission to carry out its oversight responsibility over his actions and decisions, and to be a co-equal branch of county government."

Blackwell questioned why McNamara would veto the entire budget when he has the authority to veto individual items. According to Blackwell, 80 percent of McNamara's original requests were in the budget.

But McNamara's criticisms of the budget involved the overall revenue projections rather than the wisdom of individual items.

Some of the proposed spending increases include $123,000 to come from drug forfeiture money for an increased legal staff in the prosecutor's office. The commission also proposes to computerize the county clerk's office with funding from a special license and permit surcharge.

Crafts galore

Local churches, schools and senior centers are busy hosting craft fairs for the holiday season. These shows are popular places to purchase unique, hand-made gifts for that hard-to-buy-for relative. Wildwood Elementary School, in Westland, was the recent site of such a fair. For a complete listing of craft shows see the Community Calendar. ANP photos by Debbie Pountney

Here's what friends are really for Elizabeth Taylor flashes her gorgeous smile and Malcomb Forbes hands her a check for $1 million for AIDS research. Dionne Warwick donates the profits from the famous That's What Friends Are For song to the same cause. Across the country, celebrities have joined together in fundraisers and public-awareness campaigns to help control an epidemic which claims 20,000 lives each year.

What about the epidemic addiction which claims 350,000 victims annually? Why doesn't it merit the same attention, publicity and attempts at public education? Perhaps because too many of those most effective at soliciting funds are addicted themselves.

Chances are, at least one of these addicts is committing suicide in front of you...and you are letting it happen.

These same individuals may be killing your child, your elderly relatives and perhaps, you. And, if you are typical, you are doing nothing to protect yourself, your family or your friends.

Most of the country is stunned to learn that 20,000 people will die of AIDS this year and feel compelled to do whatever necessary to protect themselves and others from the horrible consequences of this terminal illness.

While those efforts are admirable and deserve nothing less than our praise and support, we wonder when that kind of attention will be paid to the addiction which is killing more than 350,000 Americans every year. Among those 350,000, at least 5,000 are, like some AIDS patients, innocent bystanders and children who have done nothing to contribute to the contamination of their systems by a sure-fire killer. This mass murderer continues throughout our society, nearly unchecked in the path of destruction of human life it cuts through all stratas of our culture.

Last week, the American Cancer Society attempted to call your attention to the danger. This group has been warning Americans for years of the peril in which we are all placed by smokers. The Great American Smokeout is an effort to encourage all smokers to quit the addiction for just 24 hours in an attempt to demonstrate to them that they do have the ability to control their compulsive behavior and curtail a habit which will, inevitably and incontrovertably, kill them. Response to the efforts of the smoke out this year were reportedly nominal, at best.

Had it been an AIDS benefit, such as the one scheduled at the Fox Theatre this week, featuring Miss Warwick and other celebrities, would response have been greater? Perhaps, but the real issue is that the attention paid to the epidemic addiction to nicotine in this country is inferior. The education provided young people regarding the harmful effects of smoking is not nearly adequate and the clinical help to stop smoking not nearly readily enough available.

Why is it acceptable for parents to contaminate the lungs of their children from infancy with their cigarette smoke throughout their home. Were they abusing the child with an addiction to cocaine, public attention would demand punishment for such a disregard of the welfare of the child. Why is the addiction to a proven killer such as cigarette smoke acceptable? It should not be.

The controversy over allowing AIDS victims in the workplace is almost ludicrous compared to the threat posed by smokers. While the chance of being contaminated with the AIDS virus may exist, there is no doubt that smokers are more of a threat to the health of co-workers. The fear with which parents react to the imminent enrollment of an AIDS-stricken child at school seems incongruous when they allow smoking in their homes.

Miss Warwick does have the right idea. When next you hear That's What Friends Are For, think about the statistics. Think about the 5,000 innocents who will die this year as a direct result of ancillary cigarette smoke. Think of the 345,000 others who will die as a direct result of smoking. Compared to 20,000 who may die of AIDS, it appears that a real friend would do whatever it takes to help smokers curtail their addiction.

There is no hope for those who have AIDS, but a friend could save the life of a smoker.

Who is the chamber?

On Wednesday, October 4, 1989, I attended a meeting in which the guest speaker was Steve Young, representing the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Young's topic, School Finance Reform - The Chamber's Perspective, discussed the various reasons regarding the State Chamber's opposing position relative to Proposal A and Proposal B.

After Mr. Young concluded his presentation I had the opportunity to question him. The questions that I wanted answered most was, "Who is the State Chamber of Commerce and who do they represent?" Proposal B is supported by the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce, the Kalamazoo Chamber of Commerce and the Traverse City Area Chamber of Commerce. Proposal A is supported by Ford, G.M., Chrysler, K-Mart and Dow Chemical. I was curious as to who the State Chamber represented because I thought they represented local Chambers of Commerce as well as businesses.

Mr. Young informed me that the State Chamber of Commerce has an eighty-eight member board of directors who are appointed by a chief executive officer, Mr. Young would not tell me who the board members were and said that he could not furnish me with a list of their names. He also said that local Chambers of Commerce had no input into the positions that were taken by the State Chamber of Commerce.

I am presently serving on the Board of Directors of a local Chamber of Commerce. Our local Chamber pays dues to the State Chamber. It appears to me that the State Chamber of Commerce is no more than an organization consisting of eighty-eight board members who get state wide coverage on important issues simply by using the name State in front of Chamber of Commerce. It also is misleading the public, many of whom think that they represent all local chambers and local businesses.

Hopefully, in the future when an issue is endorsed or opposed by "The Sate Chamber of Commerce," the public will know who the State Chamber really represents.

Sincerely,
Gary J. Jackson, Ed.D
Huron Superintendent

Speak up council

I would like to know why any one should go to the council meetings here in the city of Inkster! Not one of the council can be heard except for Mr. Hendricks.

When the so called Mayor of Inkster tries to say something or read what is on the agenda it sounds like a pot of water boiling.

All the mayor of Inkster is good for is making a racket with his gavel.

I would say that they time you can understand him at all when something is said about the Police department not doing their job, he (Mayor Davis) knows Inkster needs help from the outside officers. Come on Mayor Davis I thought you wanted to clean up this city! You have quite a bit of cleaning ahead of you, I think you had better get started! Don't you?

Firearms debated

It would be refreshing if one of our legislators where firearms are concerned would try and be objective for a change.

We have James Kosteva of the Canton/Belleville area jumping on the Sarah Brady bandwagon without the vaguest idea of what he is talking about.

Facts about the so called assault weapons are few and far between. The news media creates a mythical crisis and the bleeding hearts are ready to trash the 2nd amendment.

Firearm deaths have been dropping for the past decade. Don't the people we put in office ever try to dig out the truth about guns.

Aristotle was right when he said "Both oligarch and tyrant mistrust the people and therefore deprive them of arms." And James Bryce said, No high qualities of statesmanship are expected of a congressman.

Employment for young people. There's too much underpaid employment. Kids can't live forever on fried hamburgers. They need better paying jobs for the kids.

Food

ROMULUS, MICH. 48174

Fantastic dessert is challenge

Some people will do just about anything to get what they want. Especially me.

I want to stay on vacation in Cancun, Mexico. I don't want to come back to Michigan to enjoy the lovely change of seasons and the colors of the trees and leaves. Frankly, the color of the sand and the sea here suits me just fine, thank you. I honestly don't care if I never see another cookbook or kitchen, and if anyone brings me anything that even resembles a phone or a computer, I'll short their tip and throw sand in their bathing suit.

It did occur to me, however, that it is time to offer something very special in light of the rapidly (too rapidly) approaching holidays. First there will be Thanksgiving and then, you know what. If one more person tells me they have nearly completed their shopping for that day, I am going to run off this beach screaming. Well, figuratively speaking, that is. It would take a lot to get me off this beach right about now.

To soothe my conscience, I am doing some Christmas shopping here. Let's see, I think my son would just love a stuffed armadillo and that handmade (HAH!) shell-covered toilet tissue holder is a sure-fire winner under my mother's tree. Yessir, I'm a busy little shopper, I am. Waiter, another pina colada over here, por favor.

Because I do have just a modicum of pity for anybody not here, I am revealing one of my long-time secret recipes. This is complicated, a terrific amount of work and prone to fail unless you are very, very careful. But what the heck, I don't have to face the consequences. Who's going to bother to call me down here to complain?

Waiter...over here please. How about a banana daiquiri?

Pecan Souffle with Frangelico Sauce

Sauce:

- 2 cups light cream
- 5 egg yolks, from large eggs
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 tablespoons Frangelico

In a bowl, combine 2/3 cup of the cream with the egg yolks and mix well. Mix the remaining 1 1/3 cups of cream with the sugar and vanilla in a saucepan. Cook this mixture over medium heat for five minutes. Remove the pan from the heat and slowly add the yolk mixture to it. Return the pan to low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens enough to coat the back of a spoon. Do not boil or the egg yolks will curdle. Cooking can take up to 30 minutes. The end result should be a lovely, silky sauce, about the consistency of heavy cream. Add the Frangelico to the sauce and keep it warm while you make the souffle.

Souffle:

- 1 tablespoon unsalted butter
- 1 1/2 cups plus 2 Tablespoons sugar
- 2 cups pecans, chopped into 1/4-inch pieces
- 4 tablespoons water
- 2 large eggs
- 1 egg yolk, from a large egg
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 cups milk
- 2 to 4 tablespoons dark rum
- 12 egg whites, from large eggs

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Coat a 3-quart souffle dish with 1 tablespoon butter and then dust it with 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Put the chopped pecans in a roasting pan and roast in the

The art of planning

Belleville cook praised for her organized kitchen

By FLORENCE WEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Simply put, Mildred Keelan is an organizer.

In fact, the Belleville resident is much more likely to boast of her ability to plan a meal than her culinary talents, despite praises from her friends and family.

Keelan discussed the art of organization last week as she finished up a batch of chocolate chip cookies for her children, appearing more comfortable in the kitchen than she will admit.

Most of Keelan's practice arranging large meals comes from her efforts for the First United Methodist Church in Belleville. Keelan has helped plan numerous bazaar luncheons, mother/daughter banquets and a ham harvest.

The planning process simply involves deciding what to serve, how much food is needed and making the necessary purchases, she said, downplaying how much work that really is.

Still some of these church events call for a touch of creativity. So it's not all that simple. Talent needs to be employed.

For instance, an upcoming event will feature homemade soup, right down to the bones, she said.

Several of the organizers already are out there looking for the appropriate ingredients.

Regardless of what meal she is serving, Keelan said advance preparation is crucial. She recommended beginning at least one week ahead of time.

"So you can get your things and your help together," she explained.

Take Thanksgiving as an example. This holiday is the only one where food takes the spotlight. (Football is a close second though.) Therefore, Keelan already has started preparing for this all-important family meal. (The networks are handling the other part.)

"I always make my own dressing, like my mother taught me."

Keelan's secret ingredient to the perfect dressing is dried out (not moldy!) bread. She does this by storing several slices in an open brown bag.

Another way to simplify the cook's work is to select recipes that can be partially or completely prepared in advance. One of Keelan's favorites is a concoction known as freezer salad. The recipe serves a large group of people, and as the name implies, it can be stored in the freezer. See how simple? Prepared with cabbage, the salad makes an interesting change for the Thanksgiving table.

Another option that can be prepared earlier is quick breads. Most recipes recommend storing the loaf at least one day to improve flavor. Keelan included a quick bread recipe among her favorites below.

Next, when planning to serve a large meal, opt for simple dishes.

"My family always likes it plain and simple," Keelan said.

Examples for Thanksgiving include winter squashes such as butternut or acorn. These dishes can be baked like potatoes.

Finally, a wise planner enlists the help of others. Keelan said she often puts one of her sons to work in the kitchen.

The recipes Keelan offered can be used for Thanksgiving or for any gathering. She admitted Pork Chop Suey is not a traditional holiday meal, but it is one of her favorite recipes. Another sign of a good organizer—flexibility.

Dressing for a 12-pound turkey

- 15 slices bread, dried in advance
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cups celery, chopped finely
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 tablespoons melted Oleo
- 1 tablespoon sage

Wet bread slightly with water or milk and crumble into a bowl. Add onion, celery and spices. Moisten mixture with melted Oleo (or butter). If necessary, add additional water. Bake one hour in 300 degree oven.

Store in refrigerator and stuff mixture in turkey just before cooking.

Pineapple zucchini bread

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup salad oil
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 cups coarsely shredded zucchini
- 1 8 1/4-ounce can crushed pineapple, well-drained
- 3 cups all-purpose unsifted flour
- 1 cup finely shredded walnuts
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Beat eggs to blend. Add salad oil, sugar and vanilla. Continue beating mixture with a spoon until thick and foamy. Stir in zucchini and crushed pineapple. Combine flour, soda, salt, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and walnuts. Stir gently into zucchini mixture just until blended. Divide batter equally between two greased and floured five- by nine-inch loaf pans. Bake in a 350 degree oven for an hour or until a toothpick comes out clean. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Turn out on wire rack to cool thoroughly. Makes two loaves.

Pork chop suey

- 1 pound lean pork steak
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon Accent
- 2 cubes beef bouillon
- 3 tablespoons corn starch
- 1 cup drained mushrooms, reserve
- 1/4 cup liquid
- 1 cup Chinese vegetables, drained
- 3 cups chow mein noodles

Cut meat into bite-size pieces. Brown in large skillet. Add celery, soy sauce and Accent. Cook until celery is tender, approximately 10 to 15 minutes. Add bouillon, mushrooms and vegetables. Mix well. Add cornstarch mixed with liquid from mushrooms. Cook until thickened. Serve over chow mein noodles.

Freezer salad

- 1 large head of cabbage
- 1 carrot
- 1 green pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup vinegar

- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon mustard seed
- 2 cups sugar

Chop cabbage by hand or in food processor. Add salt. Let stand one hour. Squeeze out juice and add carrot and pepper (chopped).

Make syrup out of vinegar, water, sugar and seeds. Boil one minute. Let cool. Pour over cabbage. Place in containers, cover and freeze. Salad will keep in freezer two weeks. Leftovers can be refrozen. One half or whole red cabbage can be substituted for regular cabbage in this recipe.

Leonardo's on Merriman Road, in Romulus, is owned by two Italian-born brothers who learned at an early age what good food is all about. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

A bit of Italy

Bistro offers authentic cuisine

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Creating rich Italian cuisine has been a career for Vito and Leonardo Liparoto nearly all of their lives.

The brothers are co-owners of Leonardo's Pizzeria and Restaurant on Merriman Road in Romulus.

Growing up in their hometown of Borgetto, Italy, the two were enlisted at an early age to help with the family bakery.

In Italy, they explained, bakeries serve a variety of entrees along with the traditional baked goods.

Years later in the United States, the Liparoto brothers gave up a lucrative career in construction to follow their dream of opening a restaurant.

They are quick to boast of the variety of selections offered at Leonardo's—lasagna, spaghetti, stuffed eggplant and rice balls. Rice balls are an extremely filling combination of ground meat, spices, cheese and sauce. The delicacy is then breaded in a special mixture and deep fried.

"Everything is fresh and homemade," stressed Leonardo.

Deep-dish pizza, another specialty at the restaurant, also offers a taste of the old country. The Liparotos revised their mother's recipe for bread to create the pizza dough.

"She used a handful and this and a handful of that," said Leonardo during an interview last summer.

Along with the sit-down restaurant, Leonardo's provides catering, takeout and delivery service. Approximately 1,500 pounds of cheese are used for the pizzas every week.

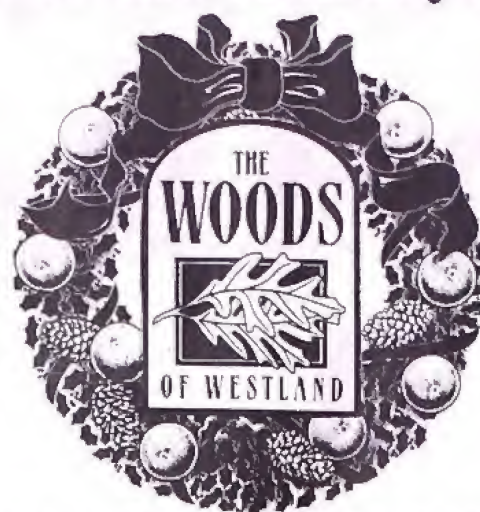

Regardless of the menu selection, few customers are able to eat all of the rich, filling food at Leonardo's in one sitting.

"You get your money's worth," Leonardo said.

The restaurant is open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday; from 11 a.m. to midnight Friday; 4 p.m. to midnight Saturday and Sunday.

TRAVEL, LTD.

MYSTERY OF MOROCCO

Morocco has been the setting for movies that explored the beauty and mystery of this fabled country, and the mystery and beauty are everywhere. The French influence still persists in this North African country, especially in the major cities of Rabat, Tangier, Marrakesh and Casablanca.

Shopping in the souks or marketplaces in colorful, narrow winding streets you will find beautiful hand-woven rugs, baskets, fine-tooled leather, brass and copper work as well as intricate filigree jewelry. While you shop for bargains and delightful mementos you'll be entertained by native snake charmers, sword swallowers, acrobats, fire eaters and winsome organ grinder's monkeys.

Leaving the fascination of Moroccan cities you will be equally enthralled by contrasts in the open countryside from snow-capped mountains and fertile farmland to the endless miles of sand in the Sahara Desert.

Eight day packages visiting Casablanca, Rabat, Fez and Marrakesh start as low as $1127 per person.

Versatility key to 1989 all-area team

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Versatility is the key to the Associated Newspapers' 1989 All-Area high school football team.

To get there, candidates showed they can handle more than one position.

Like all-stater Tyrone Wheatley, of Robichaud fame. A natural running back who has phenomenal speed. A natural halfback, right. Right.

But most of the season, the Robichaud junior carried the Bulldogs at quarterback. And he did a superb job doing it.

Right down the line you could shuffle the 24 new inductees to the elite club into just about any position and few would know that it wasn't their forte.

Among the chosen this year include: Chris Jones, Romulus' outstanding quarterback and his teammate and favorite receiver, flanker Virgil Davis. The backfield also needed a strong blocker and fitting that suite is Shawn Taylor who, like a comet, also likes to fly through enemy space.

Belleville's Ron Hunter, who has followed his older brother, Kevin, into the All-Area Hall of Fame, has nailed down one of the end spots, while Tim Kosikowski (Romulus) was picked for split end.

The tackles on offense are Anthony Martinez (Belleville)

Romulus' Dan Henry coach of the year

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

What's it take to be a winner?

Ask Dan Henry, he knows. The first-year Romulus head football coach has had a string of successes: At Bishop Borgess, in the Central Division of the tough Catholic League; as assistant coach at Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn.

And now at Romulus High. The 37-year-old Henry credits his devotion to the sport and to coaching to "some outstanding coaches" who instilled in him "that there is no substitution for hard work."

Former Belleville and Glenn coach, Lloyd Carr, now an assistant to Bo Schembechler at the University of Michigan, was among Henry's tutors.

Henry's credos are obviously paying off. He has turned the football program around at Romulus. Teams that considered Romulus easy pickings discovered just the opposite this season. The Eagles won their first South Central Conference game in three years and came within one victory (4-5) of a break-even year.

"The kids, I believe, were sick and tired of being killed by their opponents, so they decided to do something about it," Henry said.

That something was "to work hard and put in the time."

off for the Eagles, who earned respect from non-and conference rivals alike.

During his three-year stint as head coach with Borgess, Henry chalked up a 15-14

He also returned kickoffs for TDs of 60 and 82 yards and ran one punt back for a 60-yarder.

"I don't think there is a major college in the U.S. that isn't interested in him," said Robichaud coach Bob Yauck. "And he still has a year to go."

JONES, considered one of the finest QBs at the Wolverine (University of Michigan) camp last summer, continued his dazzling performance at Romulus. He broke all kinds of records, compiled a record 1,499 yards and 12 touchdowns. Jones completed 57 percent of his passes.

"Chris has wanted to play quarterback all of his life, and when he received that opportunity he didn't falter," said Coach Dan Henry. "Also, that total (1,499) is quite a lot of yards for a kid who didn't previously play in that position."

DAVIS was on the receiving end of most of Jones's missiles. The 5-9, 150-pound senior flanker nabbed 59 catches for 670 yards and eight touchdowns. He finished with 907 all-purpose yards.

"Virgil was the most consistent - the player we went to when we knew we needed yardage," Henry said.

TAYLOR, a victim of an injury that kept him sidelined for three games, amassed 245 yards for the Bulldogs in his 45 carries, which included four TDs. He also had a pair of two-point conversions.

"You can only speculate what Shawn would have accomplished if he had not been hurt but, even so, SAC coaches picked him for all-conference recognition," Yauck said.

HUNTER, a tough 6-2, 190-pound junior, is loaded with athletic ability that helped the Belleville Tigers salvage a respectable season, despite the adversity. (Voters in the school district turned down a millage request, therefore, athletes were asked to chip in $250 each to defray the costs of sports programs.) Ron was on the playing field most of the time, doubling as a linebacker where he was credited with 34 tackles and a fumble recovery.

KOSIKOWSKI is no stranger to All-Area teams. He made it in wrestling as well. An unselfish athlete, the 6-0, 155-pound split receiver caught 30 passes for 437 yards this season. He also played free safety for the Eagles.

Kosikowski and Davis were named to the South Central Conference's all-league first string.

"When you have players like Tim, Virgil and Jones on a team, it makes coaching just a bit easier," Henry noted.

WRIGHT, a 6-1, 260-pound junior, could become the best

Defense: 'The enemy shall not pass'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Defense wins ball games. That may be a cliché, but it's true in almost every sport, especially in football.

No matter how many points the offense puts on the scoreboard, if the defense can't hang on to the lead, your team is in trouble.

So, the Associated Newspapers' 1989 'Defense' was put together with players who have shown they won't let the enemy pass or run over them.

The honorary lineup includes 12 players. They are defensive ends Fred Stevens (Inkster), and Scott Murowski (Romulus); tackles Rochelle McMillan (Inkster), Leroy Wright (New Boston Huron), and Michael Nolan (Robichaud); nose guards Guam Lee (Romulus) and Andrew Wells (Belleville); linebackers Pete Hill and Mike Barbour - New Boston Huron); and defensive backs Jeremy Ison (Belleville), Paul Hill (New Boston) and Chris Withers (Belleville).

Here are the individual stats behind the team:

STEVENS, a 6-1, 185-pound senior, counted 120 tackles during the 1980 campaign and recovered three fumbles and had two interceptions.

"We called upon him to do just about everything - play quarterback, tailback and just about every position," said first-year Inkster coach Ron Gardner, "and he came through for us. He's an excellent athlete who can play for almost any college."

Stevens was one of two - the other is McMillan - from Inkster who was picked for Suburban Athletic Conference honors.

McMILLAN was the Vikings' defensive leader during the 1989 campaign. The 6-3, 220-pound senior forced the opposition to think twice before they attempted to run on his side of the line.

"When you have a team that has lost the number of games that we did, it's easy to get down and out," said Gardner, "but McMillan kept us alive. The others looked to him for leadership and he provided it."

LEE, tough and unselfish, was the spark that lit up the Romulus defense. He led the Eagles in tackles with 63 and had six sacks of the quarterback.

A junior who broke into the Romulus starting lineup as a sophomore, Lee was also selected for all-conference consideration.

"This is one player who'll be back with us next year," said Coach Dan Henry. "His experience is going to be valuable when we build the 1990 squad."

WELLS checks into the lineup at 6-3 and 205 pounds. He already looks ready to break into the college ranks. With 57 tackles and a fumble recovery, Wells displayed the aggressiveness and quickness that earned for him a reputation as one of the best nose guards in the Wolverine 'A' Conference.

WRIGHT, who is a 6-1, 260-pound junior, already has collegiate scouts looking at him. He has good quickness and can only improve with time, according to Huron coach Greg Hammond.

"Wright has all the tools to develop into the best lineman ever at Huron. We really put the pressure on him because of his talent."

Seldom on the sidelines, Wright went both ways for the Chiefs and his efforts didn't go unrewarded. He was named to the all-conference team.

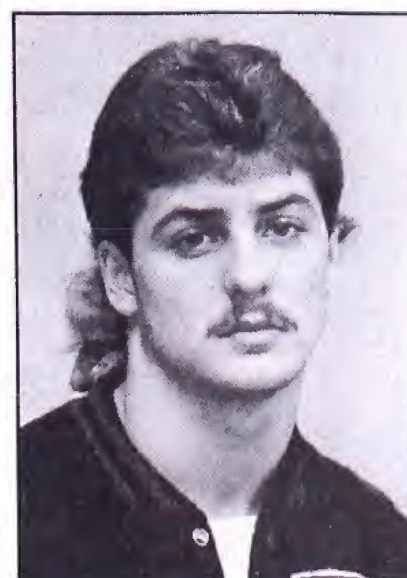

MUROWSKI, also an All-Area wrestler, was an outstanding two-way performer. As a defensive end, he chalked up 53 tackles; on offense he was the Eagles tight end and contributed eight catches, four going for touchdowns, which in itself is remarkable.

HILL, - Pete and Paul - are the first twins to be named to the All-Area team. Pete earned recognition as a linebacker who earned respect for his bruising tackles. On offense, Pete also played fullback and rushed for 203 yards and two TDs for his 70 attempts.

With a team loaded with underclassmen, the Tigers of Belleville posted a 7-2 overall record on the cross country courses this season. Next year, the Tigers are expected to give Monroe, which won the Wolverine 'A' Conference title, and Wyandotte, the runner-up, a run for their money. The Tigers had a pair of state qualifiers this year in Jason Kidwell and Gary Knowlton. The Tiger CC lineup included: Knowlton (kneeling, from left), Paul Laframboise, Peter Laframboise, Reid Shirley, Brian Ferrett and Stacy Keith; second row are Troy Adams, Emmanuel Roussakis, Tony Maciewski, Keith Julien, Pablo Casa, Jason Kidwell and Rob Priebe. lineman in New Boston Huron history, according to coach Greg Hammond. "He's got the tools to be the best. We really put the pressure on him because, as strong-side tackle, we went to his side for yardage. Despite his size, Wright has excellent quickness and, with his return in 1990, he could be the nucleus of the Huron offense. GULLIVER was the giant in the Tiger lineup. At 6-5, 256, the senior tackle stood out not only for his size but for his performances. A three-year varsity player, Gulliver possesses the strength and the ability to play for a major college team if he chooses to. "He's strong and talented," said Tiger coach Sam Villa, "and he's the kind of player that can make the difference." NOLAN was a two-way performer at tackle for the Bulldogs. The 5-10, 240-pound senior has several college scouts interested in getting his signature on a letter of intent. "He's a fine college prospect," Yauck said. "There's no doubt he can make the lineup of a major college if he tries." SELMAN, all-conference two years straight, is "an outstanding trapper", Yauck said about this hard-nosed grinder. At 6-0, 205 pounds, Selman provided the backfield a "wall of confidence" and "players who were on the other side of the line knew they were in a game when they ran up against him," Yauck added. CLARK was the "steadiest blocker" for Belleville, according to Villa. A two-year varsity performer, the 6-1, 255-pound senior brought the curtains down on an outstanding football career. BRANNAN, also a senior, picked offense All-City and All-Conference, was a three-year starter for the Bulldogs who captured the SAC title two of the last three years. "He's the best one-on-one blocker I have seen in a long time," noted Yauck, who has coached high school football for more than two decades. "We're going to miss him next year."

Brother Paul, injured early in the season, was the Chiefs quarterback. He took over a defensive halfback spot and helped the Chiefs remain respectable. BARBOUR, also drafted from Huron, was an inside linebacker for Hammond's club. He earned the 'Coach's Award' for his outstanding efforts. "Mike would do anything to help the team," Hammond said. "He always had a positive attitude on and off the field."

WITHERS, a 6-1, 175-pound senior, was the Tigers' strong safety. He managed to collect 40 tackles, had three fumble recoveries and three interceptions for Coach Sam Villa's team. "Players respect Chris," said Villa. "He is one of those athletes who gives you 100 percent every time he's out there. He does his job well, and he does it in a way that leaves you in awe." ISON, injured in the latter stages of the season, is a multi-talented athlete who has earned letters in football, basketball, and baseball. A Honors student with a 3.6 grade point average, Ison played defense when he wasn't quarterbacking the team. As the Tiger signal-caller, he completed 22 of his 46 passes for 590 yards - good for six touchdowns. He has played varsity football two years. MARTINEZ, knowledgeable in his craft, has the credentials to break into the Big 10 right now. He's 6-5 and checks in at 270-pounds. "He has everything an athlete needs to make it in college and beyond," said Tiger Coach Sam Villa. "Colleges looked at him all year long, and I don't think there is a scout who saw him play that came away disappointed."

THE GOOD LIFE AFTER A HEART ATTACK

By Omar Guevara, M.D.

WORKING OUT

When patients are home, they are referred to the Oakwood Cardiac Rehabilitation Center by their physician. An individualized exercise program, designed to strengthen the heart without causing dangerous stress, begins. Three or four times each week patients "work out."

GETTING ACTIVE AGAIN

Participants in cardiac rehab learn to reduce the risk factors of heart disease through proper diet and exercise. Their activities, and the equipment they use, are more like visits to a health club than sessions of medical treatment. Being part of a support group, comparing notes with others in similar situations, also helps patients and their families ease into positive lifestyle changes. Cardiac rehabilitation begins during hospitalization. An exercise physiologist and cardiac nurse work with patients to help maintain mobility.

A heart attack may no longer signal the need for a restricted life, but rather a need to change to a healthier lifestyle. The Oakwood Cardiac Rehabilitation Center is located at 1331 Monroe, Dearborn. For more information, call the center at 561-6400.

Holiday festival sets the mood

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A sure sign Christmas time is near, preparations are under way for the annual Festival of Trees, an elaborate fundraiser for Children's Hospital of Michigan.

When complete, the festival site in Cobo Hall will be transformed into a miniature world of Christmas trees with a gingerbread village, wreaths and of course, Santa Clause. The festival will begin Nov. 17 and continue through Nov. 26.

The 100 decorated Christmas trees are the stars of the festival. Each will be decorated professionally by business people and residents from the metro Detroit area.

Several local residents will be among the designers contributing trees to the festival. Local designers include Decorating Dan, Metropolitan Detroit, of Canton Township; Shirley Dean's Flowers, of Inkster; the team of Barbara Gibas and Marian Gibas of Romulus; the team of Mary Ann Chinavare, Linda Gibas and Marcia Stewart of Romulus; and Claire Hiaeshutter, of Westland.

During a preview party Nov. 17 the festival trees will be judged on the basis of creativity, theme and craftsmanship. It will be during this party that trees, gingerbread houses and holiday wreaths will be sold. Tickets for the preview party are $75 per person.

In addition to the tree displays, the regular festival will offer continuous entertainment, children's activities, the Isle of Wreaths and a festival gift shop. Throughout the festival demonstrations will be presented on tree trimming, wreath-making, gingerbread house building, wrapping packages, bow-making and more. All participants work on a volunteer basis, according to organizers.

Contributing their talents to the festival are numerous choral groups, dancers and performers. Local performers scheduled to appear include the Plymouth Canton Ballet Company and Gotta Dance, of Canton.

For the special wreath display, 53 garden clubs, designers and florists have donated their efforts. Seventy-three wreaths will be shown at the festival. Local wreath designers include the Van Buren Garden Club, Belleville; Lake Pointe Branch, WNFGA, Plymouth; Obstbaum Orchards and Cider Mill, Canton and the Wayne Garden Club.

Contributing to the fantasy gingerbread village are 15 area chefs and culinary art students. More than 25 entries are expected. Students from Schoolcraft college will assemble the village under the direction of Jeffrey Gabriel. Local entries in the chef division include Kris Jablonski of Schoolcraft Community College. A Schoolcraft College student, Linda Stamatellos, will participate in the student division.

Admission for this fundraiser is $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and $2 for children. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Nov. 18, 19, 24 and 26. The festival will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Nov. 20, 21 and 22. It will be closed Thanksgiving Day. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets.

CHRISTMAS

WINNERS CIRCLE

With Michigan Lottery prizes averaging more than $12 million a week, recent reader questions have asked for more details.

Q. How Much Was Won In The Past Year?

A. During the Lottery fiscal year which ended on September 30, winnings totaled more than $643 million. Included is the full value of prizes being awarded over the next 20 years to 58 Super Lotto jackpot winners.

Q. How Many Prizes Were Awarded?

A. There were more than 24 million, or the equivalent of nearly three for every resident in the state.

Q. Do Daily Games Have A Lot Of Winners?

A. During the year, the Daily 3 had nearly 1.5 million winners with prizes up to $500 totaling more than $166 million. With prizes up to $5,000, the Daily 4 added some $80 million more shared by 214,863 winners.

Q. How Many Have Won Zinger Prizes?

A. In just over six months of Zinger drawings, there were 397,287 winners sharing prizes worth more than $18 million. Top prizes of $100,000 went to 39 players who had perfect matches of the six-digit Zinger number.

Q. How Much Was The Average Jackpot Award?

A. The average for jackpot winners in the last fiscal year was $3,289,534 with the highest individual award $11,297,308.

Q. Why Are These Paid Over 20 Years?

A. To offer larger jackpots and provide more money to winners. A share of Lotto sales dollars is assigned to a jackpot prize pool and the total amount invested. Winners receive all of this plus all the interest it earns over the 20 years. Without this payment system, jackpot prizes would be a great deal smaller.

Q. With All Those Small Prizes, How Much Was Won Playing Instant Games?

A. Those small prizes, plus the larger ones, added up to more than $91 million in instant game prizes during the fiscal year.

Q. How Many New Cars Have Been Won On The Weekly Televised Game Show?

A. In the 36 "Fame & Fortune" game shows conducted during the fiscal year, 37 cars worth a total of $549,393 were won. The number continues to grow with four more won in the first four weeks of the new fiscal year.

For submitting the first question leading to this column, Betty Kingera of Gladwin will receive 50 "Fame & Fortune" tickets. If you have a question not yet covered in this monthly column, send it to "Winners Circle", Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 38077, Lansing, MI 48909. Note: When duplicate questions are received, the one with the earliest date stamp upon arrival at Lottery office wins. In cases of a tie, the winner is selected by random drawing.

When it's a lot worse than just a scraped knee.

We all hope that nothing serious ever happens to our child, but if it does, the C.S. Mott Children's Hospital at the University of Michigan Medical Center is ready with expert help.

And you get them both with M-CARE, the only HMO that links all the resources of the U of M Medical Center to the personal care of your family doctor and your nearby hospital. M-CARE

M-CARE
The HMO Choice

The only HMO backed by the U of M Medical Center.

covers you for office visits, checkups, hospitalization—even emergency helicopter transport.

Of course, with the M-CARE network of hospitals in cities like Royal Oak, Dearborn and Rochester, you don't always have to go to the U of M Medical Center. But isn't it good to know it's there whenever you need it? To find out more, ask your employer. Or call M-CARE at 747-8700.
